“No Filters: Africa at the Edge of the Lens”

Another Land presents David Pluth, National Geographic Photographer, March 3, 2007

David Pluth is a National Geographic photographer, videographer and author who has spent more than 20 years testing the limits of Western knowledge in Africa. He has also worked as a consultant, commodities trader and photographer for various African governments, the World Bank and the E.U. David has ventured into remote and uncharted territories of Sierra Leone, Libya, Ethiopia, Tanzania, Somalia, Uganda, Rwanda, Ghana, Sudan, Mozambique and Kenya.

Presently, David is managing a documentary crew, which includes Nichole Smaglick, owner of Another Land. They are trekking high altitudes into the mountains along the northern Uganda-Kenya border to film the lives of the remote Ik tribe, an isolated group of hunter-gatherers who are fighting for survival against disease, hunger and war.

David Pluth will be presenting a rare, colorful and entertaining slide show of his recent work and adventures. He will also be signing copies of his books:

Kilimanjaro: The Great White Mountain of Africa;
Uganda Rwenzori: A Range of Images;
Eye of the Storm: A Photographic Journey Across Uganda.

A cocktail reception will follow the presentation.

March 3, 2007, 7:30 pm
Northrup King Building, 3rd Floor Gallery,
1500 Jackson St NE, Minneapolis, 55113

Tickets $15. Order online at www.amias.org
